LETTER OF RECOMMENDATION FOR Evita Stenqvist

I am glad to know that Evita Stenqvist is applying for higher studies in Embedded Systems. It is my pleasure to recommend her for this. She has done a course on Embedded Systems, which had a laboratory component, at IIT Delhi in last semester. I have found her to be a sincere, hardworking, creative and enthusiastic student with a very good grasping power. She holds forth a very high degree of motivation and initiative. She had distinguished herself by maintaining an excellent academic record in my course as well (By getting A- grade), thus proving her strong fundamentals. This accomplishment only scratches the surface of her ability and character.

Evita has a natural inclination for research which stems from her curious bent of mind and a nature for questioning. She had even demonstrated a great set of analytical and research abilities. I have observed her very eager to learn and acquire knowledge. Her growth during the study at IIT Delhi was simply outstanding and she had grown into a more capable, vibrant and confident professional.

At a personal level, she is articulate, polite, cheerful, and amicable young student with a pleasant personality. She had been a great team leader and demonstrated a great set of leadership qualities. She has excellent communication skills and the ability to voice her ideas clearly, which greatly enhances her expressiveness in solving doubts when approached by fellow students. She has an excellent vision of where she would like to go, academically, over the next few years. Thus, I enthusiastically endorse her application for the course at your accredited institution so that she can continue his research work.

Yours sincerely,

S. M. K. Rahman
